

A black and white photograph of a geological rock face. The rock shows distinct sedimentary layering and a prominent vertical crack or joint running down the left side. Two text labels with arrows point to specific features: 'focussing issues' points to a horizontal layer near the top, and 'redemption' points to a lighter-colored, possibly eroded or fractured area near the bottom left.

focussing issues

redemption